

HHLA Brings Better Lab Results

Lab-in-a-Box[®]

Home Healthcare Laboratory of America (HHLA) is the leading provider of customized clinical lab services to the home healthcare industry. Our unique process and services make us the preferred laboratory given the special challenges of delivering care in the home setting. One of the greatest demands on the homecare nurse is getting specimens from the home to a laboratory without time, temperature and agitation affecting the integrity of the specimen.

After years of research, HHLA has developed a system that stabilizes specimens at the time of collection and eliminates the need for blood to be immediately centrifuged. Most laboratories test on serum, which requires that the blood be spun after the blood clots. If the blood is not spun the red cells begin to breakdown or metabolize analytes, compromising the accuracy of results.

Advantages to Physicians

Results that accurately reflect the homecare Patient's condition

Glucose levels that remain stable and accurate and potassium levels are consistently more accurate.

Trended laboratory results

Current results as well as last 3 results — all at a glance.

Less re-draws and false alert values

Fewer absurd results because specimen is immediately stabilized.

No more calls in the middle of the night on alert values

All testing conducted during the day — when action can be taken.

Web-based access to both current and historical lab results

Results are available on a secure password protected HIPPA compliant web site.

e-Results™

E-results allows the physician to bypass result faxing and have reports print directly to your computer's default printer.

Home Healthcare Laboratory of America
320 Premier Court
Suite 220
Franklin, TN 37067
(615) 771-0300
www.hhla.com

HHLA's proprietary Lab-in-a-Box[®] kit contains all the necessary blood collection supplies to ensure that specimens are stabilized from the moment of collection until the time of testing. Specimens are shipped overnight from anywhere in the continental U.S. to our state-of-the-art clinical laboratory in Franklin, Tennessee (a suburb of Nashville).

Home Healthcare Laboratory of America, Inc. (HHLA) provides an individual secured website for all of our customers and adheres to HIPAA requirements for strict patient confidentiality.

